

Figure 5.6: Usefulness of Search Source Code By Task. This histogram shows the distribution of ratings for each development task. A bar shows the percentage of respondents giving that rating for a task. The tasks are low-level design, writing new code, testing, program understanding, repairing a defect, adding a new feature, improving performance, code inspection, writing documentation, and maintaining documentation.